Quimby started on the mound for Bethel but was relieved by Morgan in the fourth.

In the first inning the Bears scored three runs on two hits, three errors, and a balk. Bethel failed to score in this inning.

Wentzell was caught between third and home but Stanley scored when Chase let two more wild pitches go. Doyen grounded out to end the inning with Bethel leading 5 to 4.

Bethel picked up two more runs in the third on three hits, two errors, and a wild pitch. Bethel scored their other two runs in the fourth and eighth innings.

FORMER GILEAD COUPLE

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

On July 24, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kimball celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Colton, N. Y., where they have lived for the past eight years. During the afternoon and evening many of their friends came in and Mrs. J. Elmer Hale of Hannawa Falls and Mrs. Harley Sackett of Potsdam assisted in entertaining. They also provided decorations and refreshments. Both ladies are nieces of Mrs. Kimball.

Elmer E. Kimball was born July 14, 1862, at Gilead, where he attended school and later worked in his father's store. His father, J. W. Kimball, was postmaster at Gilead for one of the longest terms ever served by a postmaster in the United States. E. E. Kimball was one of five children and has one brother living in South Paris.

Mrs. Kimball, nee Abbie Hale, was born June 7, 1862, one of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hale, pioneer settlers at Butternut Ridge. She attended Potsdam schools and later became a traveling saleslady. She has one brother, Harvey Hale, who resides on Butternut Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball were married at Potsdam July 24, 1889, by Rev. Edwin J. Chaffee. Subsequently they were engaged in a mercantile business at Gilead for five years, then moved to Potsdam where they were proprietors of the Villa Cafe restaurant. They then moved to Sibley, Iowa, and for 12 years were proprietors of a store. Following their stay in Iowa they went to Colorado and engaged in ranching. During this 10 year period Mr. Kimball was also an R. F. D. man. Upon retirement they came to Colton, N. Y., where they have resided since 1931.

Those present at the reception Monday were John A. McBride and Glynn Witter of Gilead and about 25 or 30 relatives and friends of the couple.

Miss Carol Robertson went to Castine Saturday to attend the music camp. She was accompanied as far as Brunswick by Mrs. Ray York, Mrs. E. P. Brown, and Garey York.

Members of the Girl Scout troop, with their parents and friends, will meet at the Legion Rooms Friday afternoon. Miss Anna McLean, director of the Lewiston and Auburn Girl Scout Camp at Lake Thompson, will be present to talk about the camp.

Les Mallard of Hartford, Conn., and Mr. Moore of Manchester, N. H., are guests of William Wight, who is spending his vacation at his home in town. They enjoyed a camping trip to Mount Katahdin the first of the week.

Monday evening the Boy Scouts met at the Legion Rooms and went to Songo Pond for a swim. Earl Hutchinson and Gilbert LeClair were awarded their Second Class badges, having appeared before the Court of Honor July 24. Irving Brown received his merit badge for Handicraft.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1939

40 YEARS AGO in the NEWS

Aug. 2, 1899

News was received last Thursday morning from Errol, N. H., that three Bethel men were drowned in Lake Umbagog. The men were John W. Clark, his son George, and James C. Bowen. . . . The men left Metalluk Island Saturday night for Errol, where they remained Saturday night, and started to return to the Island Sunday morning. . . .
Thursday morning when the lake steamer was making its regular trip to Errol, a boat was seen floating upside down near the shore of the lake and about three-quarters of a mile from Metalluk Island.
The steam sent a row boat over to the spot and found the lifeless body of George Clark entangled in the anchor line. . . . The bodies of John Clark and Bowen were not found until late Friday afternoon.

Durward Mason, Arthur Richardson and E. L. Harvey spent last Thursday night on the top of Bald Mountain.

"THEY TELL ME"

Well now there doesn't seem to be much to kick about this week.
That drouth that looked so bad
last week got busted up, and even if it is still good and hot, there is a breeze every now and then, and the nights are cooler. I don't wonder that the people seem glad to get out of the cities these days and amangle up beside a pond and up-under a big cool mountain. To see 'em travelling around here you'd think the cities must be pretty near vacant. Cars from most every state are travelling up and down Maine
now, and it's a pity more Maine folks can't or don't do likewise.
Of course if we all went at once the roads wouldn't hold us. But next month, there will be more room to ride on the roads, because most of our visitors will have to go back home and miss the best part of the year. Then it would be fun and good business too to take a day or two off and see some places
in Maine that we have missed so far.

THE INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Vacation Diary—In Pictures

Make your vacation "picture-diary" complete. Take general views and scenics—but get "fun" pictures and close-ups, too. And snap interesting details of places you visit.

EACH of us, at some time or other,
has kept a diary. Have you thought of using your camera for this purpose? It's a good idea at any time, but now, at vacation time,
it has special point.

Look back over your vacations
for the past few years. How good a picture story of each vacation did you get? Does your picture album show all the things you did—all the interesting spots you visited—the fun your group had? Or is the record rather spotty, and the pictures too much alike?

Chances are, you missed many opportunities. Perhaps you ran short of film—that's a common mistake of vacationers. But, more likely,
you shot your vacation pictures without a definite plan. You didn't outline a story for your vacation
pictures to tell.

For this year's vacation, here's a better method. As you map out your vacation plans, jot down picture possibilities in a notebook—one small enough to keep with you. Note down the things you want to remember—packing, departure, points of interest en route to your destination, things
you will do each day after you arrive.

If you're taking a motor tour,
also note down in advance the interesting or different features of the country through which you will pass.

Electric Cold Storage Keeps Farm Produce Always Fresh

With a cold storage room, market-fresh produce is available all year.

By IRA MILLER

Rural Electrification Bureau

ALTHOUGH an electric refrigerator is considered a hot-weather necessity on practically every farm having high-line power, its capacity naturally is limited to the food which the household will consume in a relatively short period of time. The problem of safely storing excess meats, poultry, eggs, dairy products, fruits and vegetables for future use, or to sell at higher markets, is one that must be solved in some other way.

Cold cellars and similar makeshifts are unsafe for meats and poultry and result in much spoilage and loss in quality of practically all other produce. On dairy farms which are so equipped, the "walk-in" type of milk cooler generally is sufficiently large to provide ample storage space for all family needs and, frequently, for marketable surpluses as well.

Community cold storage plants are being built in ever-increasing numbers but some of them have certain disadvantages especially in so far as the fruit and truck farmer is concerned. The average locker may be too small to permit the keeping of more than a nominal quantity of foodstuffs; the temperature may be considerably below freezing, thus causing ice crystals to form in the cells which, when thawed, results in soft, flabby fruits and vegetables; and the customer usually must deliver and withdraw the produce himself, thus necessitating repeated and often long trips.

The best solution is to install an electrically-powered cold storage cabinet or room on the farm where it not only is immediately available but also where temperature and moisture can be accurately controlled to fit conditions. If not too large, the cabinet can be purchased ready made, built to order at the factory or constructed on the farm with the help of an experienced carpenter. Large storage rooms naturally must be erected on the farm.

Including the refrigerating unit and cabinet or room, walk-in cold storage will cost approximately $5.00 to $6.00 per cubic foot of space if built on the farm and $6.00 to $8.00 if purchased ready made or built to order. At three cents per kw.-hr., the average power cost throughout the year for these refrigerators is about $3.00 per month for each 100 square feet of outside area—much cheaper than any other means of safe and satisfactory cooling.

Complete information on cold storage— which, maintaining temperatures of from 34 to 40 degrees and a moisture content in the air of 80 to 85 per cent, keeps all foods fresh and sound almost indefinitely—can be obtained, without cost or obligation, by writing to the manufacturers or to the extension division of your state college or university.

Surface Water Does Not Boil in Uniform Motion

The surface of water vigorously boiling in a teakettle or in an evaporator is characterized by discontinuous rather than uniform motion, says Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Geysers boil up and subside. Surging waves swing from side to side and are broken up by geysers. Large bubbles of steam or vapor break through the surface and explode, throwing large, small, and infinitely minute drops of liquid into the vapor space.

Large and small drops of liquid are projected from the surface, arching upward two, three, or more feet. Drops strike and combine, and are frequently broken into a mixture of small and large drops by the impact. Particles dance about in space invisibly supported, finally to fall or be carried away.

With increasing concentration of the liquor there is change of conditions. Foam may be seen collecting along the outer edges of the liquid surface. Eventually this may build up to a deep rolling viscous blanket or it may have the appearance of an unstable tenuous frothy mass.

At the surface of this blanket bubbles burst, spraying droplets and minute bubbles into the vapor space. A strong light projected through the observation window shows that few of these smaller particles fall back to the foam or liquid. They are swept away in the vapor passing to the outlet.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

$2 EGGS

WHEN my mother went overland in a covered wagon to a new home in the West, the country was just settling up. Transportation was slow, was expensive. Prices of everything were high.

She preserved a newspaper of her girlhood on the frontier, and it interests me occasionally to read the current prices of things you buy every day now for a few cents.

Eggs were $2 a dozen in those days. Sugar brought 40 cents a pound. Kerosene was $3 a gallon. Candles cost 25 cents apiece.

Compare these prices with the prices you see advertised in your newspaper today and you will see that, although much talk is bandied back and forth concerning the increased cost of living, the fact is that the cost has gone downward consistently since frontier times.

One of the reasons for high prices then was undoubtedly the difficulty with which the supply was obtained—the hazards and expense of transporting goods.

But the chief reason was that the cost of these necessities could not be spread out over enough customers to bring them at lower cost to all. The merchant had to pay the cost of his business out of sales to a comparatively few customers. Costs had to be high.

Prices on everything you buy today, regardless of whether you live in a village or a large city, would be higher now if it were not for the service of advertising in lowering them to your advantage.

As soon as a manufacturer or a merchant begins to advertise he begins to sell more. As he sells more it costs him less to sell to each customer. He cuts the price. More customers come. Again he is able to cut the price.

Pretty soon you have the situation of improved quality and lower prices, brought about through the creative service of advertising to the consumer.

Advertising and high prices do not go together at all. They are extremely incompatible to each other. It is only the product which is unadvertised, which has no established market, that costs more than you can afford to pay.

Whenever you go into a store and buy an item of advertised merchandise, it doesn't make any difference what, you are getting more for your money—more in quality and service—than you would get if you spent the same amount for something which was not advertised.

The man who builds a business on advertising can give you more for your money because advertising enables him to give more for less. See how advertising pays you every day.

EXTRA MONEY

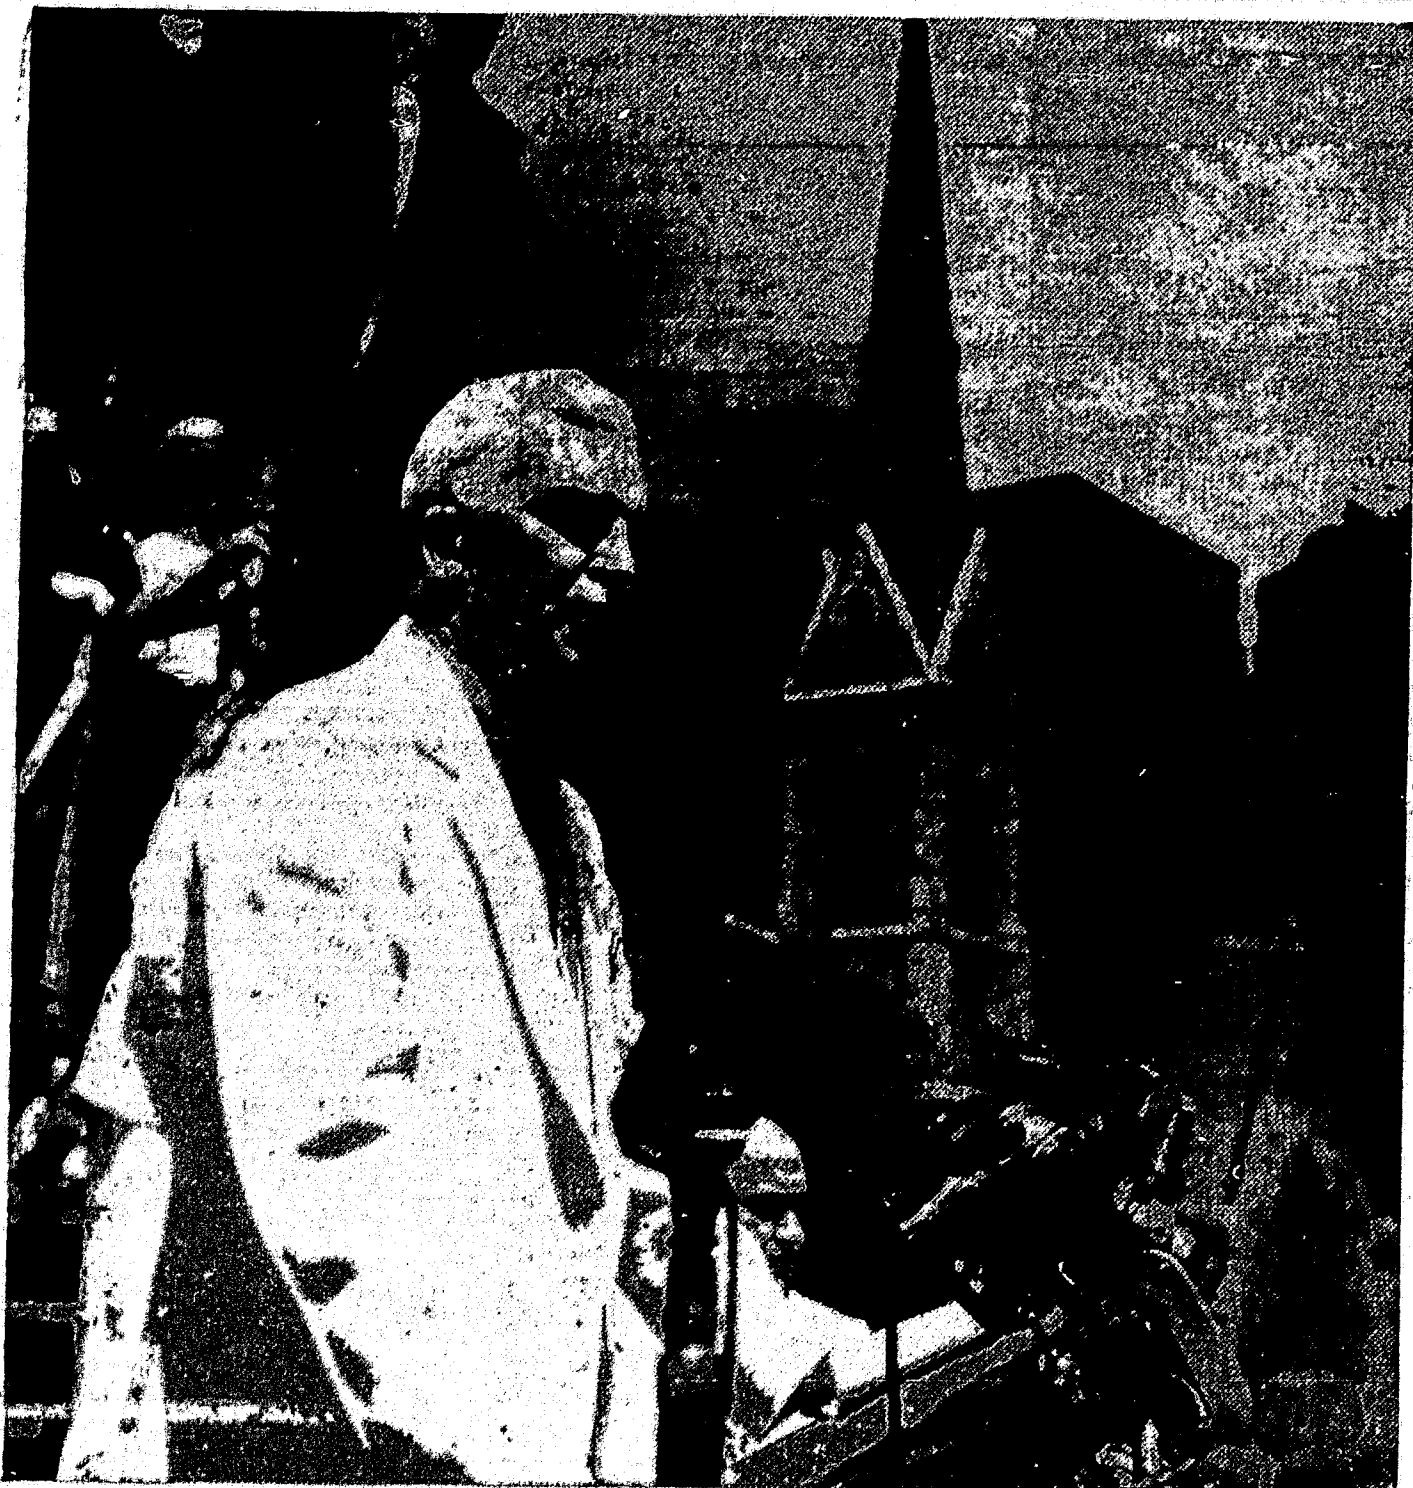

The CITIZEN offers an opportunity for industrious workers to engage in a profitable occupation during the month of August. In the territory adjoining Bethel there are numerous homes in which this newspaper is not a regular visitor, and in which a representative of the paper has never called. It is our desire to cover this area during the coming month, and to do this effectively we shall offer attractive commissions, and prizes to the leaders at the end of the month.

Before starting work it will be necessary for the interested parties to learn full particulars at the CITIZEN office or by mail and obtain receipt books and sample copies.

Those who undertake this work may put in as much time as they wish, so that it will not interfere with other employment, and will find a large field of prospects in visitors and former residents who are here at this time of the year. Our principal point at this time, however, is to introduce the CITIZEN into as many year-round homes in the vicinity as possible and a more attractive payment is offered for these new subscriptions.

Paul V. McNutt Telling Hoosier Crowd "We Must Practice Peace"

INDIANAPOLIS. — A strong plea for peace was made by Paul V. McNutt, United States High Commissioner to the Philippines and former Governor of Indiana in response to a non-partisan homecoming reception participated in by persons from all parts of the Hoosier state.

Addressing the thousands who turned out to welcome "Paul," as most of them address him, he declared, speaking of peace in the Pacific.

He declared in connection with his plea for peace—as he has often done before—for a complete re-examination of the Philippines problem in the light of conditions sure to arise when they attain their independence on July 4, 1946, as provided in the Tydings-McDuffie Act.

"I venture to predict that so long as our flag flies over the Islands no foreign power will trespass, irrespective of the military forces stationed there. So long as our flag flies there, the Philippines will be the cornerstone of peaceful reconstruction in the Far East.

MAINE AUTO DEATHS SAME AS LAST YEAR TO AUG. 1

In the report released this morning by Sgt. Francis J. McCabe, director of the Highway Safety Division of the State Police, the accident record for the State of Maine at the present time shows no decrease in automobile fatalities. The record remains the same, possibly due to the fact that people of the State have not shown a whole-hearted desire to eliminate fatal accidents caused by careless drivers and inattentive pedestrians. The past month brought death to 21 people in our State which was the highest of any month so far this year.

There have been more people killed in Cumberland County alone than within any other two counties. It not only is a shameful record but one that should be curbed through engineering, education, enforcement and a public that wants motor vehicle deaths stopped. Waldo County did not have a single fatality for seven months last year nor has death marred its perfect record to date this year.

Because the Highway Safety Division has recently received many requests concerning the meaning of the painted white lines that have been marked on our highways, we offer the following information. The broken white line indicates to the driver that the cars should be driven on the right hand side of the lines but it is all right to pass another vehicle going in the same direction if there is a clear view ahead so that the car may pass in safety. The solid white line on the approach of the brow of hills and around curves means caution, slow down and keep to the right of the white lines. After going over the crest of a hill or around a curve in the road, it is proper to pass another vehicle if a clear and unobstructed view is ahead and where it is possible to pass without endangering oncoming traffic.

Increased speed showed an upward trend as four more deaths were added to the already highly mounting total of victims from this cause. Rehearsing the evils of modern driving every month is not going to cure them. What is needed is a bigger and better campaign for careful driving together with strict enforcement of all existing traffic laws. The Director said that instead of admiring the individual who boasts that he can drive from Kittery to Fort Kent, a distance of 420 miles, in seven hours, treat him as you would treat a man who has confessed that he has robbed a bank or poisoned the drinking water at a public fountain. We must stop making heroes of people who should be in jail and award the orchids to the good drivers rather than the fast and reckless drivers. It is not necessary that we all start crawling along the highways, but this almost fiendish desire to cover a certain distance in less time than the other fellow takes, is not only endangering the lives of others but is making nervous, irritable wrecks out of all of us. Exercising a little more patience will go a long way toward lessening both the accident and death rate and more than that it may be responsible for bringing about a little more of the old-time courtesy which seems to be vanishing from our daily lives, especially when we look at the drivers on the highways of our state.
